

Copyright Statement

Version 1.0 • Last updated: 24/06/26 • Registered charity number: 1189445

Unless otherwise indicated, the material published on this website and in the publications of the Institute for Advanced Learning and Metacognition (IALM) is subject to copyright protection and is owned by, or licensed to, the Institute.

Use of IALM material

IALM copyright-protected material may be reproduced free of charge for non-commercial, research or educational purposes, provided that:

- it is reproduced accurately and not used in a derogatory manner or a misleading context;
- the source and its copyright status are acknowledged; and
- where the material is republished or issued to others, IALM is identified as the source.

Any use of IALM copyright-protected material for commercial purposes requires the prior written permission of the Institute.

Third-party material

Permission to reproduce IALM material does not extend to any material on this website that is identified as belonging to a third party. Authorisation to reproduce such material must be obtained from the copyright holder concerned. Every effort has been made to trace the copyright owners of third-party material; if you believe your copyright has been used without permission, please contact us so that we can put the matter right.

Name, logo and post-nominals

The IALM name, logo and the membership post-nominals it confers (for example AIALM, MIALM and FIALM) are marks of the Institute. They may not be used without permission, and may only be used by current members entitled to do so, in accordance with the IALM Bye-laws and Members' Charter.
